Chew it. Stretch it. Swallow the whole damn galaxy. A fizzy blast of lychee hits first – bright, juicy, and a little too eager – before melting into thick marshmallow fluff and snapping into loud, sugary bubblegum chaos. Somewhere in the mix, a round little menace is pulling the strings – stretching flavors, warping sweetness, and dragging you deeper with every sip. One turns into two . . . and suddenly you're asking "what the hell did I just drink?"

Bananas Among Us

STYLE:

Brown Ale (adjunct)

ABV:

5.0%

DESCRIPTION:

A rich, cozy brown ale brewed for late-night debates and sus accusations. This Banana Nut Brown pours a deep chestnut with a creamy tan head, releasing aromas of ripe banana bread, toasted walnuts, caramel malt, and a hint of cocoa. The flavor follows suit—soft banana sweetness up front, layered with nutty depth and a smooth, toasty backbone that finishes clean enough to keep you coming back for “just one more round.” Just like in Among Us, things aren’t always what they seem. That banana character? Probably innocent. . . but you’ll still vote them out anyway. This beer rides that same line – comforting and familiar, yet just quirky enough to keep you guessing.

BA Pastry Cream Stout

ABV:

10.0%

DESCRIPTION:

This rich barrel-aged cream stout channels pure Donkey Kong energy. We've taken a decadent base of smooth, velvety stout and aged it in barrels before conditioning it on ripe banana, toasted coconut, graham cracker, and a heavy dose of creaminess.

The result is a thick, dessert-like pour that hits with big notes of banana bread, coconut cream pie, and graham cracker crust, all wrapped in the deep character of barrel-aged stout. Sweet, indulgent, and dangerously drinkable — just like raiding a barrel full of bananase.
